Employment law advice to regulated financial services clients

Our employment law services are led by lawyers with experience of working in offshore, onshore and in-house roles in regulated financial services businesses, and who understand the priorities and pressures within the industry.

We have a long track record in our local markets, and advise on the full range of contentious and non-contentious employment matters from workplace disputes and policy reviews, to managing senior exits and advising on mergers and acquisitions.

Our teams work in a collaborative way with our top-tier ranked dispute resolution group and our financial services law teams, offering a joined-up approach to clients.

Working with clients across sectors, we also advise on incoming workplace legislation and amendments to existing laws, enabling clients to stay ahead of the curve.
